WHAT IS FINANCE?

Finance at Sy Syms School of Business empowers students with the technical skills and foundational concepts to make sound financial decisions in a multifaceted and complex world-wide financial environment.

Business is conducted by multinational corporations, insurance companies and investment banking and brokerage institutions in global capital markets utilizing diverse financial securities and derivative instruments. The Finance program develops an understanding of the domestic and international financial environment by studying shareholder value creation, financial structuring, capital markets and instruments, speculative markets and derivatives, strategies in risk management, and the nature of risk/reward in long term investment planning and entrepreneurship.

WHAT CAN I DO WITH THE MAJOR?

Finance majors may succeed at a very wide range of positions at corporations, portfolio management and venture capital firms, investment banks and commercial banks, insurance and brokerage firms, mutual funds, real estate firms, non-profits, start-up firms, and within the public sector.
