

JOB/INTERNSHIP SEARCH OVERVIEW

A successful career strategy includes knowing how to search for employment and actively networking with intentional networking. One does not exist independent of the other.

This overview will provide a general search structure, using researching tools and resources available to move one's career forward.

NETWORKING

Networking is the most common (and successful) way in which to secure employment. Following the basics of professional communication and remembering to never ask someone for something they cannot give (i.e., an internship or job) will ensure you have a foundation for successful networking.

The best way to start is with those who know us best. One's personal network of family, friends, shul members, professors, former supervisors, and co-workers is our foundation to build upon.

Moving beyond our personal network, the Yeshiva University community is a wonderful area to connect. Keep an active lookout for any of our events, attend alumni events and panels, participate in campus organizations and clubs. Yeshiva University Mentorship and Volunteer Platform (YUMVP) is a digital community where hundreds of YU alums are available and willing to help. Yeshiva University Career Link (YUCL) can also be utilized as a research tool to identify companies for active networking. This is the platform used by alums and friends of YU to post opportunities.

To continue growing one's professional network, utilize LinkedIn it is the most effective digital platform. Be sure to join YU-associated LinkedIn groups, combined with following professional associations, using their resources to further your future career.

RESEARCH AND THE SEARCH

Canvas is where the Shevet Glaubach Center for Career Strategy and Professional Development (houses all career resources).

YUCL: the first place to start when looking to apply for internships/jobs. All of our campus recruiting/networking opportunities are listed here. This is the database utilized to post opportunities for organizations looking to recruit YU students, whether a YU alum or friend of YU or an organization looking to connect within the community.

Indeed is a valuable research/networking/application tool and the best starting point to help understand how to navigate the numerous industry-specific recruitment websites. This digital platform can also save some time since the algorithm compiles all jobs/internships posted on the company's websites. Utilizing a digital asset such as Indeed will also assist in finding possible companies to work for, especially smaller and mid-sized ones.

Note, whenever possible, it is highly recommended to login into the company's website to apply.

The most important aspect of the job search is to connect within one's network for the organizations one has applied to. Having an advocate within a company of interest can significantly assist an applicant, especially if they can put in a good word for you when you do apply. Anyone who is hiring appreciates having personal referrals to decide as to whom to contact for the interview. We are here for you every step of the way, be sure to reach out to the Shevet Glaubach Center to discuss any and all details of the search.
