WHAT IS MARKETING?

Marketing is the process of planning and executing the conception, pricing, promotion, and distribution of ideas, goods, and services. It encompasses the processes by which businesses tailor their offerings to meet customer demand and how they can anticipate and influence customer needs. Marketing techniques combine principles of economics, psychology, and sociology in a business context. As a major, marketing revolves around the study of the activity and processes of sharing the value of offerings to customers to illicit interest and satisfaction from those constituents.

WHAT CAN I DO WITH THE MAJOR?

Marketing majors are prepared to succeed in a wide range of occupational areas including, but not limited to:

- Advertising
- Brand Management
- E-Commerce
- General Marketing
- Market Research
- Promotions
- Public Relations
- Sales
- Social Media

The Marketing area at Syms School of Business provides a broad coverage of the marketing discipline so that students will have the theoretical and applied background to recognize and deal with marketing challenges facing managers and their organizations.

To be successful in marketing, one needs to be a good communicator, a critical thinker, and be able to relate well to others. The Syms Marketing program is designed to give students the skills to lead organizations as general managers.
