

GUIDE TO MAJORS

POLITICAL SCIENCE

FOR ADDITIONAL INFORMATION SCAN
THE CODE

WHAT IS POLITICAL SCIENCE?

Political Science equips students with the knowledge and analytical skills required to be responsible democratic citizens in a globalized and turbulent world. Students study American Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations and Political Theory to learn about the rule-making, rule-enforcing and rule-adjudicating functions of political institutions and to assess the efficacy of such institutions in achieving modern standards of political development. Political Science students concern themselves with the problematic of who gets what, when and how in the distribution of public power and other vital resources locally, nationally and internationally. They apply theoretical models of this problematic to the practical exigencies of political situations under diverse conditions across the globe. Students study the dynamics of power within institutions (like Congress or the Kremlin or the United Nations) as well as outside conventional institutions (e.g., protest movements, terrorism).

WHAT CAN I DO WITH THE MAJOR?

A major in political science has a vast number of career options that may include academia, government, law, politics, nonprofit, business, journalism, broadcasting, and education

TRACKS IN THE MAJOR

For more information within Political Science visit:

■ yu.edu/academic-advising/undergraduate-men/sheets

■ yu.edu/advising/stern-academic-advising/sheets

SKILLS AND ABILITIES

- Communication
- Critical analysis
- Data analysis
- Political risk analysis
- Qualitative/Quantitative methods
- Research

Yeshiva University

SHEVET GLAUBACH CENTER FOR CAREER
STRATEGY AND PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT

CAREER TRACKS

Potential job titles include:

- Campaign Manager
- Foreign Service Officer
- Fundraiser
- Journalist
- Legislative Aid
- Management Consultant
- Political Strategist
- Press Agent
- Public Affairs Officer
- Public Official
- Public Opinion Analyst

Additionally, many political science majors go on to earn advanced degrees such as a JD, MPP, MPA, or MBA. With additional graduate training, potential job titles include:

- College/University Professor
- Economic Development Specialist
- Lawyer
- Lobbyist
- Mediator
- Non-profit/Public Administrator
- Regional/Urban Planner

Employment of political scientists is projected to grow 9% from 2020 to 2030, about as fast as the average for all occupations. Political scientists should face strong competition for jobs as the number of candidates is expected to exceed the number of available positions.

GRADUATE AND PROFESSIONAL PROGRAMS

Students seeking degrees after obtaining their bachelor's degree can consider an advanced degree in Political Science at some of the following top institutions:

- Columbia University School of International and Public Affairs
- Harvard Kennedy School of Government
- New York University Wagner School

Graduate school is an investment you will want to research thoroughly to better understand what you can expect to get out of your degree both academically and professionally.

SALARY EXPECTATIONS

Median pay: $125,350 per year

U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics, U.S. Department of Labor, Occupational Outlook Handbook, Political Scientists, bit.ly/35RMrtm

CAREER RESOURCES

- DC Public Affairs + Communications Jobs
- Opportunities in Public Affairs
- Policy Library
- Firsthand

NETWORKING ORGANIZATIONS

- American Association of Political Consultants
- American Bar Association
- American Political Science Association
- YU Political Science Society