

Thank You & Follow-Up Email

Interview Thank You Emails

Thank you emails are an important part of the interview process. Employers expect to receive a thank you message from candidates within 24 hours of the interview. However, sending between 4-24 hours after the interview is recommended. Many hiring managers will not invite candidates to the next stage of the interview process nor extend an offer to anyone who does not send a thank you email. From the employer's perspective, the thank you email signals your interest in the position and shows respect, which is important for the team to see before making a hiring decision.

When writing thank you emails, be sure to include the following components:

- Express your appreciation for their time.
- Share something specific you enjoyed discussing during the interview, emphasizing your excitement for the opportunity.
- Reiterate your fit for the role and company.
- Mention next steps and contact information.

A few additional guidelines:

- If you interviewed with multiple people, you should send a separate email to everyone that is tailored accordingly.
- In the greeting, address the interviewer in the way they introduced themselves to you. For example, if they greeted you with their first name, use that.
- Keep it brief but be sure to customize: three short paragraphs is a good length.
- Write the message from a computer, not your cell phone.
- Proofread carefully. Don't let a typo be the reason an employer chooses not to move forward with your candidacy.

Sample Thank You Email

Subject: Thank You! | [Position You Interviewed For] Candidate

Dear [Name],

Thank you for meeting with me today. I really enjoyed learning more about the Enterprise Security Team at IBM and how you are continuing to advance cloud security systems. The information you shared about your cutting-edge work further increased my excitement about the role.

You mentioned that you are looking for someone who is willing to take initiative and learn new technology quickly. Throughout my academics at Yeshiva University, I have made it a priority to complete weekly coding challenges in my spare time.

I look forward to hearing from you about the next steps in the hiring process, and please do not hesitate to contact me via email or at 123-456-7890 if I can provide additional information.

Best regards,

[Your Name]

Interview Follow-up Email

Hiring managers may share when they plan to get back to you during your interview, but that date may pass without hearing anything. It is encouraged to follow up in these situations, especially if you have a strong interest in the role.

Sample Follow-up Email

Subject: Following Up: [Position You Interviewed For]

Hello [Name],

I hope this message finds you well.

I wanted to connect regarding the Social Media Coordinator position. Where are you at in the hiring process currently? I am still very interested in the role and see my skills and experience as a strong match to support continued advancement of your operations.

Thank you very much. Have a great rest of your day!

Best regards,

[Your Name]

